10 TIPS TO
TAKE A GOOD PHOTO

Young Reporters for the environment

1 Choose a focal point or interaction as the main subject.

2 Apply the Rule of Thirds and place your subject off-center.

3 Find your photo's visual balance: look for symmetry or asymmetry.

4 Focus on one subject at a time.

5 Change up your angles and find different perspectives until you get THE shot.

6 Learn to use light! Golden hour, dramatic shadows...

7 Avoid zooming in, to not make the photo blurry or pixelated. Instead, try to go closer.

8 Capture small details.

9 Don't be afraid to edit and crop. Use the tools you have.

10 Ask for feedback. Share with friends and mentors, and see what people react better to

However, photography is not all about formality.
A lot of it is instinct and pure storytelling.
